

DAILY FEEDING GUIDE

Dogs typically need 2% of their weight in food daily, but portions may require adjustments with changes in age and activity level. For the most accurate portions, we recommend weighing the food.

Adult Dogs (10 months+)

Select your dog's IDEAL weight and corresponding activity level. We suggest dividing your dog's daily food portion into two meals.

Puppies (up to 10 months old)

Select their CURRENT weight and locate the recommended food portion range. We suggest dividing daily portion into three meals.

Pregnant and nursing dogs should have free access to food at all times. Your pet's individual needs may vary depending on breed, age, and activity level. Always monitor your pet's body condition. If undesired weight gain or loss is evident, adjust feeding portions.

Body Condition

Underweight

Ribs, spine, hip-bones and shoulder blades are easily seen.
No belly fat, little muscle mass.

Slowly increase food and create a safe weight gain plan with your Vet.

Healthy Weight

Moderate covering of body fat over the ribs and spine.
You can feel ribs without pressing hard.

You have found the magic balance of nutrition & activity!

Obese

You have to dig around to feel ribs.
Pot belly is present, with rolls of fat over shoulders and base of tail.

Reduce calorie intake and create a safe weight loss plan with your Vet.
